“Why don't we drop in at a coffee shop?” “Yes, let's.”
“Will you have dinner with us at my home?” “Yes, with pleasure.”
(At the door) “After you.” “Oh, thank you.”
“Let's stop here for a cup of coffee.” “Sounds great.”
“Thanks for helping me.” “Don't mention it.”
“Thank you very much for the ride.” “Don't mention it.”
“I really appreciate your help.” “I'm glad I could help.”
“I would appreciate it if you could reply by Friday.”
“Thanks for your help.” “Anytime. Just ask me again if you need anything.”
“I'm sorry I told a lie.” “Never mind. Just don't do it again.”
“I'm sorry to have kept you waiting so long.” “Don't worry about it.”
“Excuse me, but could you tell me the way to the station?” “Sorry, I'm a stranger here myself.”
“Sorry, I don't know where the post office is.” “I see. Thanks anyway.”
“It was kind of you to help me with my luggage.” “No problem.”
“Are you for or against the plan?” “I'm for it.”
“I don't have any objection to your plan. Let's do it.”
“I'm opposed to your plan. It's too expensive.”
“I think we should start earlier.” “I couldn't agree with you more.”
“So, do you all agree to my proposal?” “Yes, we do.”
“Would you like a drink?” “Yes, a glass of orange juice, please.”
“Can I get you some coffee?” “That would be nice, thanks.”
“Would you care for an iced tea?” “Yes, please.”
“Can I help you with your bags?” “Oh, thank you. They're really heavy.”
“I'm afraid I can't accept your offer.” “I understand.”
“Shall we go to karaoke tonight?” “I'll pass on that today. I'm tired.”
“What's the matter with you?” “I ache all over.”
“What's up? You look worried.” “Nothing much.”
“I don't have any appetite. I don't want to eat anything.”
“I have a sore throat. It hurts when I swallow.”
“You have a fever, don't you?” “I don't know. I haven't taken my temperature yet.”
“Have you recovered from your cold?” “Yes, thank you. I'm completely well now.”
“I'll go home and rest.” “Take care of yourself. I hope you feel better soon.”
“OK, everyone. Let's get down to business.”
“Why don't we see the ball game tonight?” “Sorry, I'm busy. Can I take a rain check?”
“Is this coming Thursday convenient for you?” “Yes, it's OK with me.”
“The plan failed. We have to do it again from scratch.” “Well, you can't win them all.”
“How do you like your new dress?” “I really like it.”
“What do you think of the new teacher?” “She's very kind.”
“Will you show me the handkerchief?” “Here it is.”
“Here we are.” “Oh, are we already at Tokyo Station?”
“May I ask your address?” “I beg your pardon?”
“I've got a cold.” “That's too bad.”
“Please make yourself at home.” “Thank you.”
“Please help yourself to the salad.” “Thank you. It looks delicious.”
“I won the lottery!” “You must be kidding. It can't be true.”
“Will you wait a minute? I want to wash my hands.” “Of course. Take your time.”
“I've had enough of your nonsense.” “I'm sorry.”
“Who are you dating?” “Mind your own business. It's none of your business.”
“I'm so nervous about tomorrow's speech.” “Take it easy. You'll be fine.”
“Excuse me. Do you have the time?” “It's ten fifteen right now.”
“Do you have time for a quick chat after class?” “Sure. What's up?”
“Please show me where we are on this map.” “Let me see.... We are here on this street.”
“I want to see the movie.” “Me too.”
“I don't like horror movies.” “Me neither. They're too scary.”
“Do you really mean it?” “Yes, I do. I'm serious.”
“We've missed the train.” “It doesn't matter. We can take the next one.”
“Mary has gotten engaged to Tom.” “Really? That's news to me.”
“He didn't pass the examination.” “What a shame!”
“I passed my driving test yesterday.” “Well done!”
“It must have been a boring job.” “You can say that again.”
“Will you be able to come?” “I'm afraid not. I have to work.”
“Come downstairs. Dinner's ready.” “I'm coming.”
“Well, it can't be helped.” “Yes. There's no choice.”

“How were your winter holidays?” “Couldn't have been better. I enjoyed every day.”
“When is the paper due?” “Ten in the morning tomorrow.”
“Congratulations! You have a healthy baby boy.”
“You have an appointment at 3:00, don't you? Can you make it?” “Yes, I can.”
“My house is just on the corner. You can't miss it.”
“Will you do me a favor, Tom?” “You name it.”
“Will you go to the party?” “Well, that depends.”
